New Clinton County Elections
Website Launches August 9

CLINTON – Clinton County voters will soon have a user-friendly website to find all of their election information.

Clinton County Auditor and Commissioner of Elections Eric Van Lancker announced that www.clintoncountyelections.com will officially go online Friday, August 9.

Van Lancker said the site will be easier to navigate to find election information, register to vote or find a form to request an absentee ballot.

“We’ve been working for some time on ways to improve displaying information about elections on our Clinton County site,” Van Lancker said. “We believe that voters will find everything they need in a user-friendly format at this site.”

Van Lancker said the site also includes past election information and a section listing officials voted on by Clinton County voters. The site also converts to a mobile format for those looking up information on their mobile device or tablet.

“Neapolitan Labs presented us with a great platform for this site that was affordable and they have been great to work with,” Van Lancker said. “We encourage Clinton County voters to check out the site and find how clean it looks and how easy it is to use.”

He said voters who go to the Clinton County website, www.clintoncounty-ia.gov, for election information will be redirected to the new elections site.
