DEPARTMENT HEADS, ELECTED OFFICIALS AND EMPLOYEES

County Auditor Eric Van Lancker reported some members of his staff will be attending several elections trainings that have been planned during the next few months. He said the Election Assistance Commission Local Leadership Council, of which he is a member, is planning an annual meeting in Washington, DC in the middle of July. He asked if the Board would like a presentation on a digital fellow located in Clinton County and if so he could schedule a presentation for next week. He said the cost to the County would be $15,000 for the first year. He said the fellow would work on educating the public on how to use the internet and what options are available to them. He also mentioned he was in the EOC Friday night as the Public Information Officer during the severe weather event. He said County Sheriff Bill Greenwalt and County EMA Director Chance Kness did a great job with responses. He also thanked Aaron Moore from GIS for coming in Friday and Saturday to assist with damage assessment.

Supervisor Srp said Conservation is entering into an agreement with an artist in residence program.

Greenwalt and Kness provided a review of the severe weather incident in Clinton County on Friday. Greenwalt said the new radios allowed them to monitor all the agencies not just in Clinton County but also other counties to the west as the storm came through eastern Iowa. Greenwalt said this is some of the best teamwork he's seen in the County during his time as sheriff. He thanked Van Lancker for his PIO duties and thanked all the fire departments across the county for their response. Kness said the National Weather Service forecasting was very good for this event and he thanked them for that work considering that many warnings Friday night. He said the National Weather Service said it was an EF2 tornado north of Grand Mound and was an EF1 by the time it reached Charlotte. He also thanked Alliant Energy for their response and communications during the incident. Kness said Clinton County is again in another track of potential severe weather Tuesday and has a meeting with the National Weather Service to discuss the storm potential. Kness said GIS and the County Assessor's Office were helpful with damage assessment the next day. The individual assistance program was activated by the State of Iowa. Kness explained how the classifications for FEMA purposes may not match what a property owner is seeing. He understands, but the assessments must follow FEMA guidelines. Greenwalt said it was great to see how many people were in Charlotte on Saturday morning to help family and friends. Kness added that Scott County EMA came up to help Friday night and Saturday. He said he had other offers from many agencies including the Clinton Fire Department. Greenwalt added the County Communications did a great job with the large amount of calls they had Friday night.

County Treasurer Dustin Johnson reported there is $3.3 million in outstanding tax collection after last week's due date passed. He said his staff did a good job of working through lines.

DISCUSSION WITH POSSIBLE ACTION

June 19 County Employee Run, Hide, Fight Training Update: Van Lancker said he, EMA Director Kness and HR Director Ellison recently met to review the details of the training. He said an initial email has been sent to all employees about the training. Van Lancker reminded the Board that the training will include closing the building for most of the day.
